

Keep the Bacon at Home

Remember when Jack Johnson, the black man, bruised Jim Jeffries at Reno? He wired his mother, "I'm bringing home the bacon." In this case "the bacon" was a large bunch of money.

It is a wise plan to keep the bacon at home. Money in circulation around home is much more useful to yourself and your community than it is if it circulates at a distance.

This is merely a hint in favor of Home Trade against the Mail Order habit.

Who Was There That You Knew?

IN the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was knocked from pillar to post for nearly 50 years, until it was discovered by a New England collector. J. Pierpont Morgan tried to secure the collection—Ex-President Garfield and General Benjamin F. Butler said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the Review of Reviews, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs. It is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—for the camera cannot lie. It tells the story of the War you never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

CLAIMS GLAVIS STUNG TRIBUNE

Brother of Louis R. Glavis Mentioned in Lorimer Case.

GOT $750 FROM CHICAGO PAPER

Was to Buy Books of Lobbyist Firm and Prove Thereby that Lorimer Accepted Fee from Chicago Magazine.

Washington, July 26.—James Keeley, general manager and editor of the Chicago Tribune, told the members of the senate committee investigating the election of Senator Lorimer of Illinois that the Tribune had been "defrauded" out of $750 by George O. Glavis, a brother of Louis R. Glavis, formerly field agent of the general land office at Seattle, Wash., and one of the principal witnesses in the Ballinger-Pinchot row.

Mr. Keeley, who was cross-examined by Judge E. G. Haney, counsel for Senator Lorimer, said that Glavis came to him and told him he thought he could purchase the books of a firm of lobbyists which, Glavis said, would show that Senator Lorimer while a member of the house of representatives received 25 per cent of a $2,000 fee for his services before the post-office department in obtaining the privilege of the second class postal rates for the Fire Proof Magazine, a Chicago publication. Glavis also told Mr. Keeley, the latter said, that former Representative James A. Tawney of Minnesota, also was mixed up in the transaction.

Mr. Keeley said he advanced Glavis $100 to pay the expenses of locating the documents. Later, Mr. Keeley testified, Glavis informed him he had purchased them for the Tribune and the sum of $650 was then paid to Mr. Glavis. But when Mr. Keeley demanded the papers he could not get them and then swore out a warrant for Glavis' arrest for embezzlement. Glavis was arrested in Chicago and brought to Washington for trial.

"What did you want with these books and papers?" asked Judge Haney.

"I intended to investigate their accuracy," replied Mr. Keeley. "If they showed evidence of crime I intended to lay them before the district attorney, and if they showed that Senator Lorimer had been involved as Glavis charged, I intended to lay them before this committee, which is investigating Mr. Lorimer's election. Later, at the proper time, I intended to print the story."

"Do you know the name of the firm of lobbyists whose books were to be purchased by Glavis?" inquired Judge Haney.

"Glavis said it was the firm of Street & Smith in the receipt which he signed when we gave him the money," answered Mr. Keeley. "That is apparently a fictitious name. I think we were gold-bricked, but something has happened since I came to Washington which has made me change my mind about it. Glavis was too smart for me."

Mr. Keeley's story of how the Tribune had been "stung" was amusing to the members of the committee. Judge Haney and Senator Lorimer who were listening to the testimony also laughed at several features of the story. Mr. Keeley at times joined in the laughter.

Mr. Keeley did not explain the occurrence which, he said, recently happened in Washington which made him think he had not been gold-bricked.

At the afternoon session Judge Haney spent several hours in vigorously cross-examining Mr. Keeley. Considerable time was devoted to the activities of reporters of the Tribune whom Mr. Keeley sent out to investigate the confession of Charles A. White, a Democratic member of the assembly, printed in the Tribune of April 30, 1910, in which White admitted having received money to vote for Lorimer.

"You sent reporters and detectives out to corroborate the White confession, did you not?" asked E. G. Haney.

"No," replied Mr. Keeley, "we wished to investigate it, to verify its accuracy or to prove its falsity."

DENIAL BY TAWNEY

Former Congressman Says the Matter is All Greek to Him.

Winona, Minn., July 26.—"The matter is all Greek to me," said ex-Congressman Tawney when shown what Keeley had said about him.

"I do not know Mr. Keeley nor Mr. Glavis. I never before heard of the 'Fireproof magazine' and know nothing whatever of any mail privileges it ever sought or obtained."

CHESTER AT CAPE HAITIEN

Scout Cruiser to Protect Interests of Americans—Guaranty of Order.

Cape Haitien, Haiti, July 26.—The United States scout cruiser Chester arrived here and is in the harbor to protect American interests. General Leconte, who has been proclaimed commander-in-chief by one wing of the revolution, guarantees to maintain order here.

The situation, however, remains tense. The German consulate is sheltering eighteen political refugees.

EXPECTED FIGHT DOES NOT COME

Taft Men Control Republican Convention in Nebraska.

ADMINISTRATION IS ENDORSED

Resolutions Are Also Passed Endorsing Nebraska Delegation in Congress—Insurgents Favor LaFollette.

Lincoln, Neb., July 26.—What promised to be a big fight between the progressive and regular factions of the Republican party in Nebraska did not develop at the state convention here.

The regulars, or the Taft men, were in control of the convention by more than 2 to 1. Resolutions endorsing the administration of President Taft were adopted without any opposition by the insurgents, who were supposed to be lined up for LaFollette. The latter did not even resist the adoption of the resolutions as they had threatened to do. Resolutions endorsing the Nebraska delegation in congress were also passed. Reciprocity was not mentioned.

Gloom reigned in the camp of the LaFollette men. Frank A. Harrison, who is supposed to be looking after the interests of LaFollette in this state, sent the following telegram to LaFollette:

"Federal brigade in control of convention. Small attendance. Farmers disgusted with reciprocity and will not attend. Tell Norris."
(Signed "Frank A. Harrison.")

CAMPAIGNING FOR HARMON

Ben Chamberlain Spreading Enthusiasm Among Nebraska Democrats.

Fremont, Neb., July 26.—Ben Chamberlain, private secretary of United States Senator Alton Pomerene and personal representative of Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio, arrived in the city and immediately launched a campaign for the candidacy of the governor before Nebraska Democrats, who meet here in state convention.

Mr. Chamberlain came with a letter to Mayor James C. Dahlgren, who has been a supporter of the Ohio executive for presidential candidate.

Recover Stolen Jewels.

Rock Island, Ill., July 26.—The last of the diamonds stolen in the $15,000 Chapin robbery at Rochester, N. Y., last December was found in a local pawnshop, where it had been sold by Beale Lewis, colored, a friend of the confessed thief, Samuel Wynn. The diamond was a heirloom valued at $2,500. It was sold for $175.

GIVES UP ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Wellman Said to Have Abandoned Balloon Trip Across Ocean.

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 26.—Information that Walter Wellman has given up the project of making a second attempt to cross the Atlantic in a dirigible balloon, transferring the management to the shoulders of Melvin Vaniman, chief engineer of the last expedition, was revealed here through a letter from Mr. Vaniman to J. Lovett Rockwell, a personal friend of Mr. Vaniman, with whom he was on the operating stage at one time.

Mr. Vaniman says he has a dirigible well on the way to completion at Atlantic City and believes the expedition will be successful.

AIR PASSENGER KILLED
